From Rev. Joyce

The Revised Common Lectionary (RCL) is a three-year cycle of readings from the scriptures. The RCL as is in common use today was released in 1994, after nine years of consultation among various denominations. It did not come of its own, but was proceeded by a number of other lectionary calendars of scriptural readings that provided a basis with which the RCL was developed.

Each week a there is a prescribed reading from the Old Testament, the Psalms, the Epistles, and the Gospels. Some congregations read all four readings each week; others, like here at St. Andrew's, may use one or more. Some congregations never use the lectionary; others, which can also happen here, use it most of the time but will periodically choose to take a different course of readings. Choosing the scripture readings for each worship service is part of my work as minister.

Over the next three weeks, there are suggested readings in the RCL from 1 Corinthians chapters 12 and 13, which I am planning to use as the basis for our worship (though the arrival of a grand-baby will likely interrupt that plan to some degree!).

And now you also have some background on how scriptures are chosen each week.

HOW THEN SHOULD WE GIVE?

*Cheerfully...*We give, not until it hurts, but until it feels good. We learn that giving is a joyful act.

"God loves a cheerful giver."
2 Corinthians 9:7

PRESBYTERIANS SHARING

Stay related to us; keep us in your prayers

Gifts to Presbyterians Sharing support and strengthen connections with international mission partners. The PCC has had a close relationship with the Near East School of Theology in Beirut, Lebanon for thirty years. This has included the presence of personnel teaching at the seminary, visits to the school to learn about issues in Middle Eastern theological education and financial support for special initiatives.

At the 2015 General Assembly, Dr. George Sabra, President of NEST, asked that we continue to partner with Christians in the Middle East. "Stay related to us," he said. "Stay aware of what is happening to us; encourage us and support us morally, spiritually and materially."

And above all, keep us in your prayers to God almighty, the Lord of our lives and of all history, in whose love and mercy our ancestors, our parents and grandparents, have always trusted."
