THANKSGIVING DISPLAY

Sukkot is a Biblical holiday on which Jews and Believers make pilgrimages to pre-determined sites for worship and fellowship. Sukkah, a Hebrew word, means a walled structure which suggests the type of fragile dwellings in which the Israelites found shelter after the Exodus from Egypt.

Our sukkah is a reminder of God's gift to us and all for which we are thankful.

PRESBYTERIAN SHARING

Reaching out to refugees in Montreal

Lama fled Syria with her three teenagers after her husband disappeared and she was badly injured in a bombing. Her sister Samira was living in Canada and asked Action Réfugiés Montréal for help. ARM filed the sponsorship paperwork and Lama was called for an interview, but proving a case is difficult, and she was refused. ARM and Samira did not give up. They worked with a lawyer and the case was overturned on a judicial appeal. Lama and her family arrived in Canada in December, 2015. Samira shares, "Thanks to the hard work, patience and generosity of ARM, my sister and her family are finally here!"

From Rev. Joyce,

An attitude of gratitude. As I planned for the Thanksgiving service as well as studying the scripture passage for this week that phrase has kept coming up for me. Let me backtrack a week. I came home from last week's service and thought to myself, "that was the least edifying service I have done in the time I have been a minister." It was not that I had not prepared, or had not put in the time, somehow I just couldn't put words together, I forgot things that are usually second nature to me and I was just not filled with the energy that I usually have for worship. I had the feeling that I had let myself, all of you, and God down. I had no indication earlier that morning that I was off, but as soon as I arrived at the church I got the sense that I wasn't quite where I needed to be to lead worship that day. Spiritually, emotionally, and physically, I felt fatigued. As the week has progressed I have been reflecting on my work, self-care, and time with God and I know that I have fallen short in all these areas in the last few months. That reflection has me making a few decisions such as being sure to carve out time for self-care and prayer, and taking a suggestion to close the door on my office for an hour here and there so that I can work uninterrupted in order to get to some of the paperwork and projects that sit on my desk. I also realized that of late I am not regularly living with an attitude of gratitude. So let me start with you the congregation. Thank you for calling me here, standing with me, caring for me, and praying for me. I am thankful that God has brought me to this work and to this ministry. It brings beauty, joy, challenge, new learnings, and amazing people into my life. I pray that my part in this ministry brings even a portion of that blessing back to you and our ministry together.
