From Rev. Joyce

I am in Geraldton for worship today, but the sermon series on remembering our baptism continues. Part three of four is Remember what you have. May you be blessed as you worship today and I will see you next week as we celebrate and witness the profession of faith of Sherry Prieston and Ellen Ashton.

The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, generosity, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control.
Galatians 5:22-23.

“Goodness: to have the nature of God, and therefore, to be able to discern right from wrong, do good to others, and expose evil and injustice. Goodness results from the Spirit developing within us the same sense of right and wrong God has. Loving confrontation comes from this character quality. Goodness may be expressed as taking a stand against wrong in the lives of others or in society. Goodness must always work hand-in-hand with kindness. Goodness boldly calls people to accountability. Kindness tempers our attitude in confrontation. Kindness without goodness can become co-dependence, but goodness without kindness can result in unnecessary harshness and judgments.”

Located in an area that faces challenges related to poverty and has a high concentration of single-parent families, the centre is committed to ensuring that each member of the community has the opportunity and skills needed to realize their full potential.
