A PCC MISSION MOMENT Community outreach

West Toronto's St. Andrew's Islington Presbyterian Church has begun a new missional experiment called Intersection that seeks to reach out to people living in their community. This ministry invites people who have never been to church and may not feel comfortable stepping inside a church building to experience worship in a way that is more comfortable for them. The church is introducing neighbours to Christ by hosting events in everyday places such as retail spaces and condo party rooms. They hope to bless their neighbours by offering ESL meet ups, a senior's drop-in café, divorce care groups, and parenting support programs.

From Joyce

This past week I had the opportunity to sit in on about forty-five minutes of court proceedings. All a new experience for me. I found myself listening and observing the proceedings that for many happen day in and day out, but again, not something I have experienced in my world. It is funny what can catch one's attention. For me it was that the lawyers consistently referred to each other as "my friend." I was curious about this so I did what many people do when trying to learn new information and they have a cell phone with data, I googled it. Turns out that referring to each other as "friend" is a sign of respect in the courtroom. Of course, from there my mind was thinking about all this friend stuff with Facebook and friends, friend suggestions, unfriending, and blocking friends. There is even a television series called God Friended Me. It made me think about my understanding of what a friend is, a person who cares and with whom I am in a real world relationship that includes opportunities to meet face to face, have conversations, or writing meaningful words to. Friends are people who truly care about one another. My hope is our church, St. Andrew's, is a place where people are welcomed, find true friendship, and together we are a community.
